

Mr. Gerardo Patacconi

Chief, Clusters and Business Linkages

United Nations

Industrial Development Organization (UNIDO)

Gerardo Patacconi, is a statistician-economist and a private sector development expert. After a few years in manufacturing and banking in Italy, he joined the United Nations (UNIDO) in 1987 as a junior expert in Papua New Guinea. He is currently Chief of the UNIDO Clusters and Business linkages Unit and is responsible for UNIDO program on industrial clusters and sustainable supplier development, and on CSR for market integration. The main focus of his work is to provide advisory services and technical cooperation on agribusiness and automotive clusters and value chains and is now managing a large-scale programme on clusters in cultural and creative industries in the South Mediterranean. During his career, he has also developed successful strategic and operational Public-Private Partnerships and buyers-suppliers sustainability projects. An excellent communicator, he often moderates and delivers keynotes in ministerial meetings and international conferences and has also widely published on development, international trade, industry, sustainability and CSR, both as UNIDO representative and in his personal capacity.
